Yanks Capture Le Mans

Canadians Crack Two Main Defence Lines Covering Paris

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Canadian 1st Army tanks and infantry broke through the first and second German defence lines more than 15 miles below Caen today while American armored columns to the southwest drove beyond captured Le Mans in a surge that the Nazi radio said had carried to within 87 miles of Paris.

The two main enemy defence lines covering Paris had been breached in a day of furious attack and the Allies were exploiting the double break-through to the full.

British United Press Correspondent Ronald Clark said German resistance at the heretofore strongly defended hinge below Caen was cracking under the hammer blows of Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian and United Kingdom forces and the Nazis Sarthe river line, natural barrier on the southwest approaches to the French capital was described as broken "wide open" with the fall of Le Mans.

MOSCOW, Aug. 9.—Two Red armies opened the battle for Riga and tightened their encirclement of the remnants of 26 to 30 German divisions in the Baltic states today with converging drives through swamps and massive forests on the southwestern and southern approaches to the Latvian capital.

Front dispatches said the 1st and 2nd Soviet Baltic armies already had won the first round by smashing the most powerful German attempt yet to break out of the Baltic trap and by knocking out more than three German divisions in a fighting advance across the Aukstaitis river 65 miles southwest of Riga.

Receives Sweeping Mandate

Hon. Ernest Manning, Premier of Alberta

Commends The Bulletin

Premier Says Albertans Show Practical Democracy

By their choice in the provincial general election of Tuesday, the people of Alberta have demonstrated that the true practical democracy for which Social Crediters are fighting is a far better and more to be desired alternative to the old order of financial orthodoxy, than state socialism ever has been or ever can be, Premier Ernest Manning stated here Tuesday night.

His statement was made in an interview with The Edmonton Bulletin and also in an address to the public when it became apparent that his government was returned by a sweeping majority. His address went to the public over CFRN by way of a microphone installed in The Edmonton Bulletin news room.

In a statement to The Bulletin the premier said that "I want to thank The Edmonton Bulletin for its constructive and generous support during the whole of this campaign. Further, I appreciate the fairness and impartiality of The Bulletin for allowing me and my colleagues any and every opportunity for placing our views before the public. Also I commend The Bulletin for its continued and progressive fight for monetary reform and lower interest rates."

Landeryou Wins Lethbridge Seat

LETHBRIDGE, Aug. 9.—(CP)—John C. Landeryou, former Social Credit member of parliament, today was elected to the provincial legislature for Lethbridge constituency, defeating David Elton, Independent.

The third and final count gave Mr. Landeryou 2,469 and Mr. Elton 2,346.

The election of Mr. Landeryou was conceded although ballots marked by service voters from Lethbridge had not been received. Only 200 blank ballots had been distributed for the constituency and thus the solid vote could not change the result.

Entire Cabinet Re-Elected As Opposition Fails to Win One Seat on First Returns

By STANLEY WILLIAMS

Blasting opposition of three parties from its path, Alberta's Social Credit government under leadership of Premier Ernest Manning juggernauted back to power in Tuesday's provincial general election, capturing 41 seats in early returns and was leading in eight other ridings. Forty of the seats so far won are in rural constituencies.

The election landslide catapulted CCF, Independent and Labor-Progressive party candidates into political oblivion so decisively it is yet doubtful if combined opposition in the tenth Legislative Assembly will total five members of all parties.

In Edmonton, Premier Manning broke all existing polling records, receiving a total of 13,970 votes in incomplete first count figures, out of a total of 36,998 valid ballots.

Soldier Ballots to Be Added

An approximate 4,000 soldier ballots remain to be added to preliminary Edmonton figures before official first count totals are obtained. At least 1,000 military votes cast Monday were not received in time to include in counting, with the result that tabulation came to a halt here at 2:35 a.m. Wednesday.

The city count got under way at 2 p.m. at the I.O.O.F. Hall on 103 street. A staff of 80 clerks, specially-trained, is carrying on the work of distributing the votes. Commencement of the city count had been delayed pending arrival of the soldier ballot boxes. The last two, from Suffield and Claresholm, reached the city Wednesday morning and the count commenced.

Leading contenders in the Edmonton vote beside Premier Manning in the unofficial count were Elmer E. Roper, CCF provincial leader, with 5,113 votes; J. Percy Page, Independent party, 4,531; W. J. Williams, Veterans', 3,417; Johnnie T. Caine, DFC and Bar, Independent party, 1,377, and Harry D. Carrigan, Social Credit, 1,169.

Labor-Progressive Trails Field

Other city candidates first count votes ranged from Orvis A. Kennedy, Social Credit, 859 votes, to Mrs. Grace Murdoch, Labor-Progressive, 68.

While Social Credit majority in Edmonton remained in doubt, country ridings outdistanced party standing in the last Legislature by four members, with eight countings undecided in addition to the ten city seats of Edmonton and Calgary.

Social Credit ministers returned to office, all of them on first count, were:

Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, Grouard.
Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, Cardston.
Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and public welfare, Hand Hills.
Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, minister of agriculture, Lacombe.
Hon. Alfred J. Hooke, provincial secretary, Rocky Mountain House.
Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs, Acadia-Coronation.
Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney-general, Beaver River.
Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and minister of education, Warner.

Mr. Tanner was first cabinet member to be elected. He was followed by Mr. MacMillan, Dr. Cross and Mr. Gerhart, in that order.

Gain Six Independent Seats

The government gained eight seats from Independents, one from Labor and one from the Liberal party, according to returns to date. Thirty-one seats are Social Credit unchanged.

Only 26 minutes after city polls closed at 7 p.m. The Canadian Press conceded a Social Credit victory. By 8 p.m. the vote assumed landslide proportions, and one hour later it appeared that opposition parties would be doing well to elect even four candidates into the Legislature.

Outside of Premier Manning, whose election is a certainty, no other party leader can be sure of a seat.

James H. Walker, Independent leader, Warner, lost out to Mr. Low, national leader of the Social Credit party. Elmer

Govt. Has Given Away Greatest Power: McGeer

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—In a renewed attack on governmental financing under the present banking system from the floor of the House of Commons Tuesday, G. G. McGeer, K.C., Liberal member of parliament for Vancouver Burrard, declared that the government had given away the greatest power it possessed—the power to issue money—when the law permitted banks to enlarge their deposits and lend the money to the government.

Mr. McGeer charged the power had been given to a group of men whose business was lending money for profit. The result, he said, was a national tendency to keep money scarce so that it would always be in demand. "It is a monetary system that has neither sense, nor reason nor logic to sustain it," he said.

Continuing his attack at the night sitting of the House, Mr. McGeer moved an amendment that Canadian chartered banks be prevented from issuing bank deposit credits as a substitute for currency unless authorized to do so by a board made up of government officials.

Mr. McGeer moved the amendment to the bill extending the charters of Canadian banks for ten years. He said the change in the bill would prevent the banks from issuing credit which created booms such as preceded the last depression.

THREE-MEMBER BOARD

It would prevent the banks from issuing bank deposit credits as a substitute for currency unless they were authorized to do so by a board made up of the prime minister, the minister of finance and the governor of the Bank of Canada.

No action was taken on the amendment, moved after the House had heard Arthur Slaght, K.C., (L.-Parry Sound, Ont.) urge that the control of credit and currency be taken from the banks and restored to parliament.

W. A. Fraser (L.-Northumberland) said Mr. McGeer and Mr. Slaght were either "unable" to absorb the evidence or were simply trying to obstruct passage of the bill.

Mr. McGeer, in opposing the bill, was renewing attacks made at banking and commerce committee meetings against present methods of governmental financing.

Earlier Mr. McGeer found himself at issue with Finance Minister Fliley who argued there was little difference between the methods Mr. McGeer proposed and those followed by the government and went on to express complete confidence in Canada's ability to carry its debt.

NET DEBT CHARGES

Net annual debt-carrying charges on March 31 last, he said, were $183,509,335, compared with $149,651,900 on March 31, 1939, and $164,349,572 on March 31, 1920.

"What is there in figures like these to justify these alarmist utterances (by Mr. McGeer), this talk about a Niagara of bankruptcy, the

Nazis Abandon Cannon Before Canadian Drive

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN

WITH THE CANADIANS BEYOND CINTHEAUX, France, Aug. 8.—The new British-Canadian "break-in" on the German right flank has uprooted the Nazis from their strong points so swiftly that they are abandoning large numbers of their most deadly weapon—the 88mm gun.

"This looks like the real thing," a Canadian brigadier said. "It's 'break in' first of all, then 'break out.' The enemy looks as if he has been on the run—that is where he is still able to run."

Field officers asserted that the "crust" of German resistance had been smashed. "The Germans are having great difficulty pulling out because we dominate the roads and their transport is crippled," one officer explained.

That was the fate that befell the Germans in the village orchard at Cintheaux, a former strongpoint which I examined today.

LIKE "GATES OF HELL"

They had made the orchard into a miniature fortress by cranking it with 20 dug-in tanks, much heavy ack ack, 88's, mortars and machine guns.

"It was like going into the gates of hell to get into that village," the brigadier said.

The Germans hurled a fountain of deadly steel out of the cluster of trees on the hillside but concentrated Allied artillery fire broke through the screen and compelled the Nazi gun crews to quit their gear and take refuge in the ruins of the village.

NEVER GOT BACK

They never got back to their guns. I saw them today, some undamaged and ready to fire, projecting from the emplacement.

Across the road were ten blackened hulks which once had been German tanks. The brigadier told me they marked the scene of a battle in which the Allied tanks took on 20 German Tigers, Panthers and Mark IV's in a ploughed field where the battle for the orchard was going on.

"A German panzer division was caught in the process of being relieved in the line when our attack was launched yesterday," a Canadian staff officer explained. "They were bewildered. We attacked them at three or four points. The extent of their surprise is shown by their heavy losses."

"You see Panzers and guns everywhere around here. This is a real spectacle of a victorious battlefield for us!"

DRIVING AHEAD

As we talked, the Canadians were carrying forward their drive with great momentum, aided by brilliant weather. The battlefields are the kind of tank country where they have been trying to get into beyond Caen.

The battle at the moment centred around "Bald Plate Ridge", a smooth, woodless eminence controlling Falaise. Fierce resistance was encountered from Germans emplaced in a quarry in that region but infantrymen hurling grenades finally got in close enough to clean them out.

Self-propelled guns, Long Toms and field artillery were laying down a hurricane barrage on the ridge, which will decide the fate of Falaise if not the entire German right flank.

Canadians Killed By U.S. Bombers

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

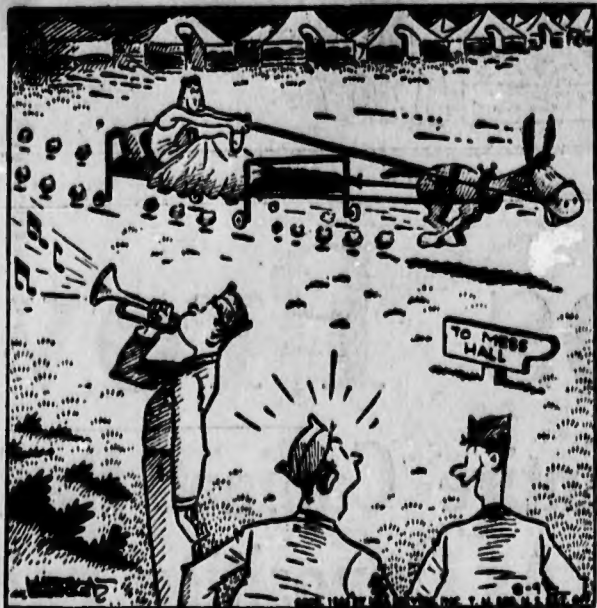

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 8.—(Delayed)—(AP)—A senior Canadian staff officer told war correspondents today that in this afternoon's heavy raid by American four-engined bombers in support of the Canadian offensive south of Caen, from six to 30 bombs fell short, resulting in casualties to Canadian personnel.

A high Canadian officer was one of the wounded.

Six hundred American heavies participated in the raid, which was directed against German positions before the Canadian line.

The staff officer who disclosed these accidents said he did not know to what they were attributed.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Union Nationale Likely to Form Govt. in Quebec

Samson claimed the honors by two votes.

Preliminary and incomplete tabulation of the popular vote gave about 448,000 votes to the Liberals, 48,000 higher than the total polled by the Union Nationale. Heavy Liberal majorities in a number of Montreal seats accounted in part for the difference.

BLOC NEVER FACTOR

The Bloc Populaire, with 80 candidates entered, was never in the running as far as electing any great number of candidates was concerned although the four Bloc Populaire representatives elected could still conceivably hold the balance of power in the next legislature.

The CCF ran 24 candidates and elected one—the first CCF representative in the Quebec provincial house. He was David Cole who won the nine-way fight in the newly-created northern riding of Rouyn-Noranda. Rene Chelout will again be the lone Nationalist member in the house following his election in Quebec (country).

Premier Godbout won handily in his home riding of L'Islet, and seven out of 10 of his cabinet ministers were re-elected with him. They were Provincial Treasurer J. A. Matheson, Health Minister Groulx, Fisheries Minister Valmore Bienvenue, Attorney-General Leon Casgrain, Georges Dansereau, Minister of Public Works Wilfred Hamel, Minister of Lands and Forests and Acting Labor Minister, and Joseph Francoeur, minister without portfolio.

EX-MINISTERS WIN

Elected with Mr. Duplessis were five men who were members of his cabinet between 1936 and 1939. One—sime Gagnon, former minister of mines and fisheries, was re-elected in Matane; Johnny Bourque, one-time minister of public works, won in Sherbrooke; Bona Dussault, former minister of agriculture, was successful in Portneuf and former Health Minister Dr. Albin Paquette was returned in Labelle.

Antonio Elie, former minister without portfolio, won in Yamaska. At 32, Andre Laurendeau will be the youngest party leader in the house following his election in Montreal Laurier in a five-way battle. Other Bloc seats are Beauce, Beauharnois and Stanstead.

Main point of dispute between the two parties was that of provincial rights and co-operation with the federal government. The Liberals have claimed that their policy of close co-operation in the war and in the post-war period was the policy which would best serve the interests of the province.

The Union Nationale has claimed that the Godbout regime has surrendered many cherished provincial rights to the federal government under the guise of war necessity, and that only a change in policy could save the French-Canadian way of life.

BLOC SLIPS STEADILY

With the anti-conscription Bloc Populaire slipping steadily behind but strongly emphasized they had no ill effect on the course of the offensive.

Strong Forces Allied Bombers Raid Stuttgart

By WALTER CRONKITE

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Strong forces of fighter-escorted Flying Fortresses and Liberators bombed Stuttgart, important German industrial and rail centre, and targets elsewhere in southern Germany today.

The daylight raid followed up a night assault by the RAF and RCAF over an area with a radius of 200 miles behind the battlefield which destroyed thousands of tons of oil and gasoline that were desperately needed by the German army at the front within the next few days.

The raid on the Stuttgart area was made in bad weather, and came as German news sources reported other allied formations had plunged deep into central Europe from Italian bases.

MOSQUITOS ACTIVE

During the night, RAF Mosquito bombers pummeled the rail and communication centre of Cologne in Germany with two-ton block-busters, while four-engined Halifaxes attacked several flying-bomb launching sites in northern France and blasted three large German fuel dumps in France.

The fuel dumps, all of which were left burning, were hidden in the forest at Air-Sur-Lys in the Pas de Calais, Luchaux farther south and St. Chantilly, just north of Paris.

Supreme headquarters announced that more than 1,000 rail cars and 60 locomotives were destroyed or damaged yesterday by fighter bombers in northern and central France. Four enemy planes were destroyed in combat and another on the ground in the dive-bombing and strafing attacks.

BLASTS AT BRIDGES

Medium and light bombers concentrated on road and rail bridges yesterday and supreme headquarters said satisfactory results were reported over nine widespread targets, most of them east of the Rhine.

Allied bombers also struck at enemy shipping, both war and merchant vessels, from the Bay of Biscay to Norway. Rocket firing RAP coastal aircraft raked three enemy minesweepers in the Bay of Biscay setting all afire.

Torpedo-carrying and cannon-firing Beaufighters attacked a convoy of 14 ships near Egero off the southwest coast of Norway. Three of the vessels, between 2,000 and 3,000 tons each, were torpedoed, three others set afire and six additional badly damaged.

Three of the Beaufighters were missing from the raid in which the Allied planes faced anti-aircraft fire from both ships and shore batteries.

The German attempt to sever the Allied lines at that point appeared to have been frustrated, however after two days of bitter fighting that cost the counter-attacking Nazis about 200 tanks destroyed or damaged, many by RAP rocket-firing Typhoons.

Other big Allied victories were in the making in the Breton peninsula where American troops opened a major assault on Brest, after the Nazi garrison rejected a demand for their surrender, broke into the outskirts of St. Malo and drove within five miles of burning Lorient.

GENERAL CAPTURED

Lt. Gen. Karl Spang, commander of the Nazi 266th Infantry Division, was captured by the Americans in the drive on Brest.

Still other American forces driving eastward from Brittany approached Angers on the Loire river 50 miles southwest of Le Mans.

German counter-attack aimed at the hinge between the Normandy and Brittany fronts appeared to have been stalled following the loss of nearly 200 tanks destroyed or damaged in a series of futile lunges toward Avranches. The Germans themselves faced a growing threat of encirclement in the area as American forces drove a wedge two and a half miles southwest along the Vire-Cherence-Le Bousset road.

A Canadian staff officer told war correspondents on the Normandy front that the Canadian 1st Army, which includes United Kingdom formations, had broken two German defence lines south-east of Caen.

The enemy put all his stuff in the show windows, which now have been broken," he said, indicating that the Canadians and British had driven into open country and now would strike directly toward Paris.

Pate Ridge" near Poitiers, about five miles north of Falaise.

Artillery had brought Falaise under fire and the fall of that ancient Norman town, birthplace of William the Conqueror, apparently could not be long delayed.

In less than two days of fighting the Canadians and Britons had broken the first two German defence lines before Falaise and Clark's dispatch said the Nazis were surrendering in increasing numbers.

(The London Star said, 2,000 Germans were captured last night.)

FEWER CASUALTIES

"For the first time the Allies have cracked into a major German defence without the usual determined casualty-making resistance, and for the first time it appears that there is a substantial inability to ward off our blows," Clark wrote. "There is an increasing number of prisoners and an increasing resignation among troops who know they have 'had it.'"

Clark added that the battle this afternoon "shows all signs of developing into the most critical battle the tattered remnants of the Wehrmacht have yet fought."

Canadian and British casualties have been "extremely light considering the character of the fighting," a medical officer stated.

YANKS ROLL AHEAD

German reserves were reported streaming to the American front in a desperate attempt to stem the wave of tanks and riflemen closing on the French capital, but front dispatches said Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's columns were rolling ahead.

The German radio said advanced American elements were some 37 miles from Paris in the Le Mans sector, which, if true, means that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's armor had penetrated beyond Le Mans for about 25 miles.

Le Mans, an industrial city and five-way railroad junction on the Sarthe river 112 miles southeast of Paris, was taken almost without a fight by tank forces that broke into the city before the hargreased Nazis had time to organize its defenses.

MOVE CAUTIOUSLY

There was nothing to indicate any serious obstacles in the path of the Paris-bound Americans, but headquarters spokesmen said they were moving cautiously pending destruction of the enemy pocket of resistance at the juncture of the American and British lines east of Avranches.

The Allied lines at that point appeared to have been frustrated, however after two days of bitter fighting that cost the counter-attacking Nazis about 200 tanks destroyed or damaged, many by RAP rocket-firing Typhoons.

Other big Allied victories were in the making in the Breton peninsula where American troops opened a major assault on Brest, after the Nazi garrison rejected a demand for their surrender, broke into the outskirts of St. Malo and drove within five miles of burning Lorient.

Liberals Poll the Largest Vote in Quebec Provincial Election

QUEBEC, Aug. 9.—(CP)—Preliminary and incomplete tabulation by The Canadian Press of the popular vote in the Quebec election showed a vote more than double the 1939 record total. The largest vote—39 per cent—was polled by Liberal candidates. Union Nationale, which elected the largest group, polled 36 per cent, and the Bloc Populaire 15 per cent.

The tabulation, based on returns from 7,601 of 8,384 polls, follows:

	1944	1939	1936
Liberal	448,337 (37)	301,631 (69)	224,374 (14)
Union Nationale	403,514 (45)	220,402 (15)	323,812 (76)
Bloc Populaire	172,826 (4)	2,513 (0)	1,466 (0)

had been "very huge and disastrous in their present situation."

The Canadians broke the back of the German defences in heavy fighting at Cintheaux, nine miles southeast of Caen on the highway to Falaise.

British United Press War Correspondent Richard D. McMillan described Cintheaux as a graveyard of German 88-millimeter guns, field artillery and anti-aircraft batteries. When the German resistance finally cracked in the face of mounting losses, he said, they abandoned intact rows of tanks and additional 88-millimeter guns.

Other towns taken in the breakthrough included La Hogue, five miles southeast of Caen; Breteville-Sur-Laize, nine miles southeast of Caen and two miles west of the highway to Falaise; Breteville-Le-Rabet, 11 miles southeast of Caen; Langenierre, 11 1/2 miles southeast of Caen, and Grainville, 12 miles southeast of Caen and eight miles northwest of Falaise.

Canadian casualties were "exceptionally light," he said.

British 2nd army forces also extended their bridgehead across the Orne river southwest of Caen and were expected soon to link up with the columns astride the highway to Falaise.

A supreme headquarters communique said the Germans had applied the torch to their supplies in St. Malo and Lorient.

First word of the capture of Le Mans, largest city in the Sarthe Department and former headquarters of the French 4th Army, came in a front dispatch filed by Henry T. Gorrell. British United Press war correspondent, at 11 a.m. 45 a.m. EDT.

The occupation of Le Mans carried the Americans across the Sarthe river and gave them control of major and secondary roads radiating from the area. Le Mans had a peacetime population of 68,000.

Gorrell disclosed that many towns and roadside hamlets were swept up in the converging advances on Le Mans from Laval, Mayenne and Angers.

Only sporadic rearguard resistance was met as the spearheads of tanks, mobile guns and mechanized infantry rolled eastward over the southwestern approaches to Paris. A few strong points were bypassed for later mopping up, but most of the scattered enemy resistance was quickly quelled and the bag of prisoners grew hourly by the hundreds.

A doorless pre-fabricated portable garage has been developed which permits entrance and exit of automobiles by tilting one end of the garage with weights and pulleys.

M. J. Coldwell Is Not Discouraged

By R. T. RICHARDSON

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, told The Bulletin today he found the election results in Quebec and Alberta "are not discouraging" and he reserved his congratulations for the victorious Social Credit government in Alberta which he hoped would give Alberta progressive legislation. Referring to Quebec, he said, "We won one seat and found some support for future activity. The contest was obviously a tie between Liberals and more provincially-minded opposition parties."

Still without final results on Alberta, Mr. Coldwell said the new legislature over there would have the CCF representation and that the CCF popular vote had increased substantially. He said other groups and elements had "ganged up" on the CCF "in Alberta."

Canadians Gain In Night Drive

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 8.—(CP)

—Canadian troops have broken through the Germans' second defence line astride the Caen-Falaise road on a limited front, and leading elements now are only five miles from Falaise.

(This dispatch was written shortly before noon today.)

During the night Canadian tank columns struck south from Cintheaux, halfway between Caen and Falaise, advancing five miles in the darkness.

Western and French-speaking infantry captured Breteville-Sur-Laize, two miles west of Cintheaux. A Canadian staff officer said "our object was to break through the two German defences and we've succeeded, on a limited front, in doing so."

The Allied line in France today runs from a point just east of the River Orne, due north of Troarn, south to a point about 5 miles west of Falaise then bends roughly west to Vire. From Vire it goes south to the Mortain area, thence east to Domfront, and from there south to Chateau-Gontier (with one thrust reported at Le Mans. From Chateau-Gontier it runs southwest in the Loire river at Nantes, thence west to the outskirts of St. Nazaire.

Full-Time CBC Chairman Bill Gets Approval

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—(CP)—The Senate banking and commerce committee yesterday passed without amendment the bill providing for a full-time chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation board of governors.

The bill for the incorporation of an export credit insurance corporation, discussed by the committee previously, also passed with some minor amendments.

Senator John T. Haig (PC—Manitoba), speaking of the CBC bill, said with the increase in advertising revenue the corporation enjoyed he did not see the necessity for continuing the license fee at $2.50 a year. He also suggested more effective means of collection should be instituted.

War Services Minister LaFleche said money collected in license fees was turned back to the public in the form of programs. The CBC did not go out to take money from other bodies in the advertising field, but broadcasting had become a necessity in the eyes of many advertisers.

Senator Edward Michener (PC—Alberta) suggested commercial radio advertising be eliminated on Sunday.

General LaFleche said he was sympathetic to this view but doubted whether any action could be taken by the CBC.

Young Social Credit Leader To Carry on the Task Set By Late Premier Aberhart

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hon. Ernest Manning, a slender young man with a sober face and a merry smile, yesterday led his Social Credit government back to office in Alberta provincial election voting.

Himself a man of decided opinions, Mr. Manning will carry on the task set forth for him by the teacher who took Social Credit from the realm of books and academic debate and made it a potent political force in Alberta in 1935. For Mr. Manning was the closest confidant of the late Premier William Aberhart when the Calgary school teacher-evangelist became convinced that revision of monetary policies was essential for the welfare of Canada.

When the Social Credit forces were elected in 1935, Mr. Manning stood at Mr. Aberhart's right hand as a cabinet minister. He stood by Mr. Aberhart during troubled days when there were divisions within the Social Credit movement and then, when Mr. Aberhart died last year, Mr. Manning became premier.

BORN IN SASKATCHEWAN

Born at Carnduff, Sask., in 1908, Mr. Manning as a youth listened to the evangelistic broadcasts by Mr. Aberhart from the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute. He went to Calgary and became a student at the institute, where he attracted the attention of Mr. Aberhart and finally was "adopted" by the teacher and Mrs. Aberhart, staying at their home. At 26 he was the youngest cabinet minister in the British Empire.

Giving an erroneous impression of frailness, Mr. Manning has a vigorous voice and limitless endurance on the public platform. He has a deep voice, speaks as definitely as a school teacher and explains in infinite detail. He has several of the mannerisms of Mr. Aberhart who was in contrast to him a stout bald man.

During the election campaign Mr. Manning addressed at least one meeting every week-day and conducted Bible Institute services every Sunday, in either Calgary or Edmonton. He finished the campaign "feeling fine" having travelled about 4,000 miles by train, plane and automobile.

Mr. Manning was married in 1935 to Muriel Aileen Preston, who played the organ in the Bible Institute at Calgary. They have two children.

As premier and minister of trade and industry he has little spare time, but when he has an hour in the evening he likes to spend it with the 2nd (R) Battalion, The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, in which he holds the rank of captain. His hobby is fishing, but he has had small opportunity to practise it in recent years.

fear of repudiation and so on?" he asked.

"This country will not repudiate. It is nowhere near the place where there is any cause for alarm."

Mr. McGeer said he did not plan to run for parliament in the next Dr. 'Union general election.

He made the remark while the Commons was in committee on the bank bill.

REGRETS LATE ACTION

Speaking on clause 59 of the bill which deals with cash reserves in the banks, he said he was sorry the bill was brought down at so late a date.

There were many things in the Canadian banking system which should have been investigated. Passage of the bill meant members of parliament would not have a chance to discuss the banking system for another 10 years.

Mr. McGeer said he did not plan to contest another election and for that reason, wished to leave his ideas on record.

Alberta Votes for Progress

The landslide victory of the Social Credit Government of Alberta, coupled with the tremendous personal victory of Premier Ernest C. Manning, is an immense public endorsement of the progressive administration this province has received since 1935.

This is the obvious and surface conclusion to be drawn. But the implications of the results are rooted much more deeply than this. Quite as much significance attaches to the rejections implied in the verdict as to the enthusiastic approval accorded the Government.

For whatever excuses the CCF advances for its crushing defeat yesterday, the fact will remain that this expression of public will throws a tremendous obstacle in the way of the socialistic bid for national control. So far as the winning streak of the CCF is concerned, Alberta has undone all the Saskatchewan victory accomplished and more. In no other province, now, can the CCF point to an unbroken march towards federal domination.

The vigorous rebuke administered to the Independent Party carries even more significance. For the Independent Party represented the organized opposition to the Social Credit demand for monetary reform.

The startling diminution of that opposition is indicative of the new trend, not only in Alberta, but throughout the whole Dominion. It shows that monetary reform, the ultimate basis of the Social Credit purpose, is a cardinal issue in Canadian minds. As a cross-section of Canadian public opinion, it is a complete repudiation of the sound money policies of the Hon. J. L. Halsey and just as much a public endorsement of the campaign of G. G. McGeer, K.C., and Arthur Slaght K.C., as a motion in the House of Commons would be.

Nationally, the Canadian people endorse monetary reform in 1935 and in 1940. The Social Credit victory in Alberta constitutes a third endorsement, and an endorsement upon which the Dominion Government, if it values its life, will promptly act.

Alberta voted for progress, but for progress, not of the socialist brand, but along the lines of monetary reform.

The campaign in Alberta was one upon which all parties can look back without regret. Principles were hotly disputed and arguments were vigorous and warm. But personalities were not attacked in any great measure. No matter how vigorously certain doctrines have been rejected, every candidate emerges from the campaign with no lessening of self-respect or the respect of his opponents.

The election was not only progressive in its results, but progressive in its comparative courtesy.

Five Stunning Defeats

In the past two years, the dishonest, discredited and obsolete policy of the Hon. J. L. Halsey has met five stunning rebukes at the hands of the people of Canada.

In four by-elections, as well as in the provincial elections of Ontario, Saskatchewan, Quebec and now, most emphatically of all, the province of Alberta, Mr. Halsey's policy has been angrily and vehemently disowned.

G. G. McGeer K.C., Liberal member for Vancouver-Burrard, and Arthur G. Slaght K.C., Liberal member for Parry Sound, have fought valiantly to have the Liberal Party redeem its 1935 and 1940 pledges which promised that money would become man's servant and not his master.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King took the first step towards implementing these pledges when he made The Bank of Canada a publicly-owned institution. It remained for the Hon. J. L. Halsey to nullify this step by refusing to use The Bank of Canada to create and issue currency and credit in terms of public need.

Instead, he took a stubborn stand to preserve the stranglehold of the private money monopoly by permitting the ten chartered banks to create and issue by mere bookkeeping entries and thus hang an entirely unnecessary interest-bearing debt of three billions about the necks of the people of Canada.

The people of Canada will not permit the continual mounting of this unnecessary public debt which has now climbed to the staggering total of thirteen billion dollars. The people of Canada refuse to live their lives in this intolerable financial straight-jacket.

We cannot have social security and social justice when 90 percent of our medium of exchange is debt money at interest.

The people of Canada, on five occasions, have endorsed the scathing indictment of Mr. Halsey by Mr. McGeer when he said that the sovereign power of Parliament to create and issue currency and credit must not be given away to enslave Canadians in perpetual debt.

For this is the fundamental basis of political unrest in this country. The Alberta elections prove it beyond a doubt. And not even the prestige of Mr. Mackenzie King can save the Liberal party if it continues to follow the disastrous and stubborn reactionism of Mr. Halsey in defiance of the vigorously expressed demands of the Canadian people.

Street Car Efficiency

Elsewhere on this page is a letter from a correspondent who feels that a great deal of carelessness has grown up in the operation of Edmonton's street car system. Although this letter is not couched in tones that The Bulletin would endorse, it is printed because it does appear to echo more or less faithfully a good deal of the comment heard around the city.

The Bulletin does not wish to associate itself with any specific charge that some motormen are discourteous, reckless and exhibitionist because any such charge attacks all motormen. And it is quite clear that many employees of the system are competent, careful and polite.

Nevertheless, this letter does express a viewpoint—and apparently a viewpoint of no inconsiderable section of the community.

Last week, this newspaper suggested that a general investigation take place into the operation of the system with the idea of curtailing the frequency of accidents. Such an investigation could very well be extended to consider also the efficiency of motormen.

Dissatisfaction of this kind can grow into an ominous storm unless prompt steps are taken to correct irritating faults and habits that alienate the support of the public.

Back to the Dark Ages

Out of the political confusion that reigns today in Quebec emerge two or three vital facts of national significance.

The first is that the Liberal Government of Adélard Godbout would likely have been returned with a working majority had the premier not had the temerity to promote a modern educational system in his province. But his effort to lift French-Canadians out of industrial and economic peonage through compulsory education was met with all the force and fury of the powers of reaction.

These powers, intent on maintaining the intellect of Quebec at a mediaeval level, still have the influence, if not to govern the province, at least to obstruct the efforts of those who would reform and modernize it.

For, after all, this strong expression of authoritarian sentiment as expressed in the support accorded Maurice Duplessis is a declaration of ideological war on the rest of Canada. It is a confirmation of everything that Senator Bouchard has charged.

Practically, Quebec is not in a happy state even from an administrative standpoint. For the forces of reaction, instead of gaining a clear-cut victory have only succeeded in obstructing progress. Instead of setting up a definite fascist rule, which would have been bad enough, they have only been able to throw Quebec into the chaos of the Dark Ages—which is infinitely worse.

Decentralization of Germany Will Not Prevent War

Splitting Up of Reich Increases Menace, Says Thompson

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The dangers of an intensified population in a truncated Reich are foreseen by some statesmen. They are comprehended by Mr. Summer Welles, Mr. Welles, in his just published book, "The Time For Decision," hopes to get around this problem by destroying the centralized German Reich, and dividing it into three states, of southern Germany, the Rhinlands, and northern Germany, including Prussia.

Mr. Welles' theory is that Germany's capacity to wage war depends upon her unification in one Reich.

This simple statement is not historically true. The successful Prussian war against France in 1870, led to unification of the Reich, and was waged for that purpose, but the Reich itself did not yet exist. The war was waged by a coalition of German states.

Centralization is a good preparation for war. But an overwhelming motive for war, based on deeply popular foundations and permeated by a sense of justice, is an even more certain preparation.

Leaving war potentials out of account, will three Germans be diplomatically less powerful than one? There is a misnomer anyhow, for there will remain German-Austria—a fourth Germany.

Diplomacy is the preface to all wars. If Germany ever tries to fight again, she will want allies. Three or four Germans will seek allies in all directions and with greater chances of success than one would have.

There will be a tendency for Austria to gravitate into the orbit of southern Germany. Austrians do not like Prussians, but southern Germans are also Catholic and speak almost the same idiom.

Western Germany, far and away the richest part, will be both a bait to and a prize for France.

Northwest Germany is in the orbit of British trade.

If it is the intention to keep Germany divided, the tendency will inevitably develop to reward parts of Germany for staying separated, while rival states seek expansion of power through the division. This picture I am painting is not an invention—it is the recording of historical experience. Before Germany became a unified Reich in 1870 Britain used Prussia against France and Austria; France used western and southern Germany against Russia. Germany herself was weak at that time, but she was the battleground of other European nations and the object of many conflicts. After all, we are trying to prevent war. Not only war by Germany but war over Germany.

And can mere force keep a people divided who do not wish to be?

What kind of a division is there to be? Merely political? Then we shall have to control three administrations instead of one. But can we prevent secret political agreements, treaties, and plans, between the administrations of southern Germany and northern, or western? Can we force the three administrations to move in opposite directions?

How can you divide a people culturally and in the realm of ideas? Can we prevent Germans in Berlin from reading Cologne newspapers or people in Cologne from reading Leipzig or Munich publications? Won't they all read the same books and listen to the same radio stations? Won't they all live under the same codes of law—or are we to create three separate legal systems? Shall we prevent a student born in Cologne from attending the University of Berlin, or vice versa?

This, again, is a mechanistic concept that leaves out of account all the imponderables which are the organic life of a nation. Two thousand years of dispersion have not prevented Jews from being Jews. A hundred and fifty years of division did not stop Poles from being Poles.

There is no analogy in modern history to be found for this. After the last war the Austro-Hungarian empire dissolved from within, out

Poles. Does anyone think that if an outside power broke up the United States, it could ever stop Americans from being Americans? The problem is not one of geography or administration, but of the little gray cells, the minds and emotions of people, and these cannot be changed by geography gerrymanders.

Shall we divide Germany economically? Shall the Rhinlands no longer have free trade with Berlin, or Berlin send its goods without customs to Munich? How could any of this be sustained in justice or human reason? Is it progressive or reactionary?

There is no analogy in modern history to be found for this. After the last war the Austro-Hungarian empire dissolved from within, out of conflicting races and cultures and inequalities of treatment. But we are here proposing to dissolve not a disparate empire but a unified nation-state. It is argued that this state has only existed since 1870. This is legally correct but historically misleading. The unification of Germany was in preparation for centuries. It followed the universal European line of development. It was the issue in the abortive 1848 liberal revolution and its foundations have always been deeply popular. Not the feelings of the people but the interests of dynasties kept Germany divided. When unification finally occurred, it was historically overdue.

In the modern world we cannot turn the clock back to the seventeenth or eighteenth centuries. We can only go forward.

Editor, Bulletin: Is conscription morally sound?

If an act is, in essence, immoral, does it become moral merely because it is used in a "just" cause? Does the end justify the means? Measured in history, conscription is of recent origin. In the year 1793, an agnostic group seized control of the government of France, and, thereupon passed the first conscription law in the history of Christendom. No king, in the "Ages of Faith," would have dared to impose conscription, as kings then ruled under God as well as under the law. (Sub Deo et Sub lege.)

At any rate, the system, known as conscription, spread from France to other countries on the wings of 19th century materialism.

By what moral right does any state compel a citizen to take away the life of any man? Conscription is, in essence, based on the assumption that man is an animal, without free will or conscience, or alternatively, that the judgment of the state, on moral questions, is always binding on the citizen.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was not a "pacifist," but he was opposed to conscription on moral grounds. There was no conscription during the long War of Independence. Thomas Jefferson could not approve of conscription, as it is a direct violation of the unalienable rights set out in the Declaration of Independence.

Pacifism and conscription are equally obnoxious. How can we have democracy, if our people will not study the roots of democracy? EDMONTON. M. D. K.

Poles Incensed

Editor, Bulletin: I think it is high time something was done about it! Just within this past week alone (not mentioning numerous previous occasions) at least two radio programs have been heard over the CBC national network, one—an address by a professor from the University of Toronto, who spoke with a German accent but whose name I don't quite get, in which he accused Poland of being a country of "Junkers"; the other—a sketch sponsored by the Johnson Wax Co. which ridiculed and mocked the Polish Army fighting so splendidly on every front. Also the Ottawa Citizen on Monday venturing into editorializing, praising the Moscow-sponsored "Polish Committee of National Liberation."

After the above one wonders whether Canada is an ally of Poland or whether she has taken up Goebbels' line of propaganda against Poland?

I am a Canadian of Polish descent, my parents having come to Canada 30 years ago. I was born in Manitoba, received my elementary, high school and business education in Alberta, and in the fall of 1937 I went to Poland where I spent two years of study and extensive travel throughout that country. I also spent some time in Germany, Italy and what was then Austria, and, therefore, with such a background I feel justified in writing this letter of protest against what seems to be a daily increase of harmful misinformation of matters Polish.

I naturally love Canada, but I also have a very deep attachment and pride for the country of my ancestors. I know for certain that I am expressing this feeling in the name of many fellow Canadian-Poles, in the name of hundreds of Polish refugees, temporarily in Canada whose homes and future are at this moment at stake, and in the name of many Canadian and sympathizers of Poland.

Suppose Canada fell a victim of endless foreign cross-examination, ridicule and criticism, how would we citizens of Canada feel? Putting the answer in plain words—it would hurt! The Poles are not different. It hurts them too!

Women's Influence

Editor, Bulletin: Really encouraging news—Mr. Henry Ford, the "Father of America," in his 81st year expressing the warm love and esteem for the women in his world. This is just because his most loving wife had inspired him to succeed in his American greatest fortune, fame and glory and what have you. But how many women lead men to penitence—how many lead their husbands to reform—how many lead them to get the dope habit—anything to buy them jewels and luxuries.

How many women make traitors of men to their own countries and forced revolution and bloodshed and destruction to their own loved land? EDMONTON. J. T.

New Drivers

Editor, Bulletin: I am just one of hundreds of reasonable citizens here that would like to register a big protest against the street car drivers in your department for the careless and dangerous way the "new drivers" are doing their job. I have been riding in the street cars here for over fifteen years but never been thrown around whilst travelling in them the last two years ever before.

They seem to have no sense of responsibility whatever. It seems just another joy ride with them and the public, women and children too, can just go to blazes.

I thought no one was allowed in the front cab when a driver is driving a public vehicle and off times with double the number of passengers, but the "new drivers" seem to be talking or making wisecracks to friends or women conductors inside their cab all the time now.

Every day you see and hear the passengers remonstrating with them after their reckless careless trips, but they are such a jaunty conceited lot, don't seem to care about their job one iota, and just insult any passenger who cares to speak. I'm satisfied there are more complaints the last two years than ever before, but can do little during the war and I venture to say there is no more reasonable and appreciative public than our Edmonton one to men. I mean real men too who try to do their job properly, learn a better every day and are courteous to the customers who pay for it.

I would like to see every passenger who is risking himself with these conceited, rude, careless, reckless "new drivers" get their number and see their complaint is duly taken care of and have every one of them fired or warned for the last time. Why we could get far more better service from the new women conductors driving them and feel safer. The crowd of "new drivers" seem to know everything in their own conceited imagination and far too well-headed to want to learn it the right way. In any other line of business they wouldn't last five minutes and I as well as many hundreds of other good citizens are just waiting for our real and best men to come back and take the places of these reckless, rude and careless makeshift men.

Let them read this, its just the opinion of hundreds of your readers, who are just sick of the carelessness, rudeness and irresponsibility of the batch of recruit "new drivers" who never want to learn this or any other job. A CITIZEN OF EDMONTON.

Treason

Editor, Bulletin: Re-Your recent editorial, "This is Treason," why does the government allow such statements to be made by certain citizens of Quebec, and continued hostile demonstrations toward people who do not see "eye to eye" with these same citizens, while the statements and demonstrations in question, are detrimental to our war effort, also abusing our Allies?

Canadians have been interned for very much less than these people are guilty of. Some have been, and others are in concentration camps, for speaking on behalf of some of our Allies, while these people of Quebec, are "boasting" our enemies!

These same persons were responsible for the "padlock law"—a law only becoming Nazi and Fascist doctrine, and they have publicly stated, they would again enforce it, if elected to power. Evidently, they can do and say, as they please, while others cannot. Is not this dictatorship? And if such is allowed in Canada, why then, are we fighting?

Your editorial is a credit, in that it has exposed this disgraceful affair, but is not the government directly responsible, in tolerating such behaviour, especially in war time?

Sir Harry's Lassie

From the Salvation Army Red Shield Report

Harry Lauder, a young coal miner, went for a walk one Sunday afternoon and heard the familiar music of a simple Salvation Army open-air meeting. Standing on the curb, together with a small crowd of other people, he listened and looked, and these few moments marked an important milestone in his career.

He was smoking a pipe, but in respect for what the meeting represented, took it out of his mouth and pushed it in his pocket, and listened to the thumping of a big bass drum.

Then he suddenly riveted his eyes on a girl in her teens—she had an appealing freshness, and was small-boned and daintily fashioned. She wore a ground-length, home-made dress and prim bonnet tied with ribbons under her chin.

Beneath her bonnet was a sweetly sensitive face, a well-chiselled nose and a mass of soft glistering curls. Harry Lauder could not stop looking at her.

He soon sought a formal introduction, and before long told her in his own Scotch way, "I'll love ye as long as I live." They were married in a little Scotch mining town.

For the balance of her life Annie Valance, the little Salvation Army girl, was to play an important role in the great comedian's life, helping him perfect his songs, acts and costumes, listening to his rehearsals in their plain little home, long before he rose to popularity and knighthood.

All through the life of this great minstrel the plain little sweet-faced, curly-headed girl that stood in the open air on a Sunday afternoon was to encourage him in defeat, balance him in success, sustain him in the time of trial and difficulty in his rise "from coal dust to gold dust". From pit to palace, as coal miner and knight, Annie Valance, the little Salvation Army lassie, was ever by Sir Harry Lauder's side.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW

by Hal Dean

THE name of Eddie Shore, familiar to Edmontonians particularly in matters pertaining to hockey, made its debut in a new role at the Exhibition track on Tuesday evening. The E. W. Shore, Edmonton, listed as the owner of Bobwill in the third race, is of course, none other than hockey's greatest defenceman. The track, furthermore, is only a few jumps from the Arena where Eddie received a good start on the way to ice-lanes fame.

Eddie's entry ridden by George Godley didn't win, but he finished a good second to Kingbroom after coming up from fourth behind Double or Nothing and Pine Hog. Bobwill won at Saskatoon and Regina in his last two previous starts, with Godley doing the urging. He also had two seconds at Regina while ridden by Jose Vina.

Pine Hog and Bobwill drew most of the attention in the third event, cash customers laying 1031 and 944, respectively on these two entries to win and 903 and 817 for place. There were 1259 straight bets on Lee Williams' Withengower in the fourth, that being the highest for any horse with the exception of the total of 1568 on L. R. Knifongs' Hoops My Dear in the fifth.

The daily double pool of $4,092 was the smallest of the three days, and the quinnella melon of $6,682 was just 100 less than Saturday's. There were 93 tickets for the Starnaut-Royal Parade selection in the quinnella, each being for $36.60 at the then current rate of exchange. There were 150 correct pasteborders purchased for the double and for

Starnaut Returns $45.45 in 7th Race

Only Single Favorite In List Winners

STARNAUT, chestnut mare owned by T. W. Taylor of Saskatoon and trained by Miss P. Swallow of Winnipeg, posted the longest price of the current race meeting at the Edmonton Exhibition track when she returned $45.45 on straight tickets in the seventh event on Tuesday's twilight card.

Quinnella figures also hit a new high, each of the 93 ducats which combined Starnaut with the top-heavy favorite Rural Parade being worth $59.60. The Yankee Clipper to Free Exchange daily double paid $22.50, second best to date.

Favorites had their toughest day so far, Yankee Clipper, who took the first half of the double, being the only public choice to register a victory. Four of the winners, however, ranked second in the estimation of the punters.

Rural Parade, who at 75 to 100, was the second shortest priced favorite in the three days' racing, fared better than favorites in five other races, finishing the place spot in the quinnella. Sable Gift received most of the play in the second race and finished fourth, while Pine Hog in the third event and Hoops My Dear in the fifth, wound up fifth.

Withengower, the Lee Williams entry in the fourth, showed at even money in the last reading posted, but ran third, the same as Lover's Lass in the sixth.

Starnaut's win the the quinnella was, of course, the biggest upset of the meet. Quoted at odds of approximately 22 to 1, about two less than McLeod Breeze, she ranked seventh in the public's fancy in the field of eight.

Jockey Kipling got her out of the Cowlack gate first and she was never worse than second place, Shaganappi, piloted by R. W. Maskell, and owned by L. A. Schlosser of Staveland, was out in front a couple of lengths at the quarter and maintained the lead to the half when Starnaut moved up.

Rural Parade, S. Riddle's trim chestnut gelding, from Calgary, ridden by Joe Braddish came out the gate in fifth position and was running fourth at the half by a head over Royal Pirate. He overtook Sum Tam at the three-quarters, but entered the stretch three lengths behind the flying Starnaut and was unable to pick up more than a half-length.

Centaur, a replacement secured from the CP Airlines club is also on the pitching list and may be depended upon for a sterling performance.

It was Gen who set the Walk-Rites back in the rubber game of the series and in doing so shaded Beth Carveth who has been rated one of the best girl fastball pitchers in the west.

Manager Clare Hollingsworth has not yet announced his choice for the first game of the series, but it is likely that Jean Stewart will get the nod.

Led by Mary Verenka, pitcher and right fielder, the Pats present a heavy hitting club whose average hitting power is .217; Verenka has the imposing average of .394 opposite her name in the statistics after playing in 17 games.

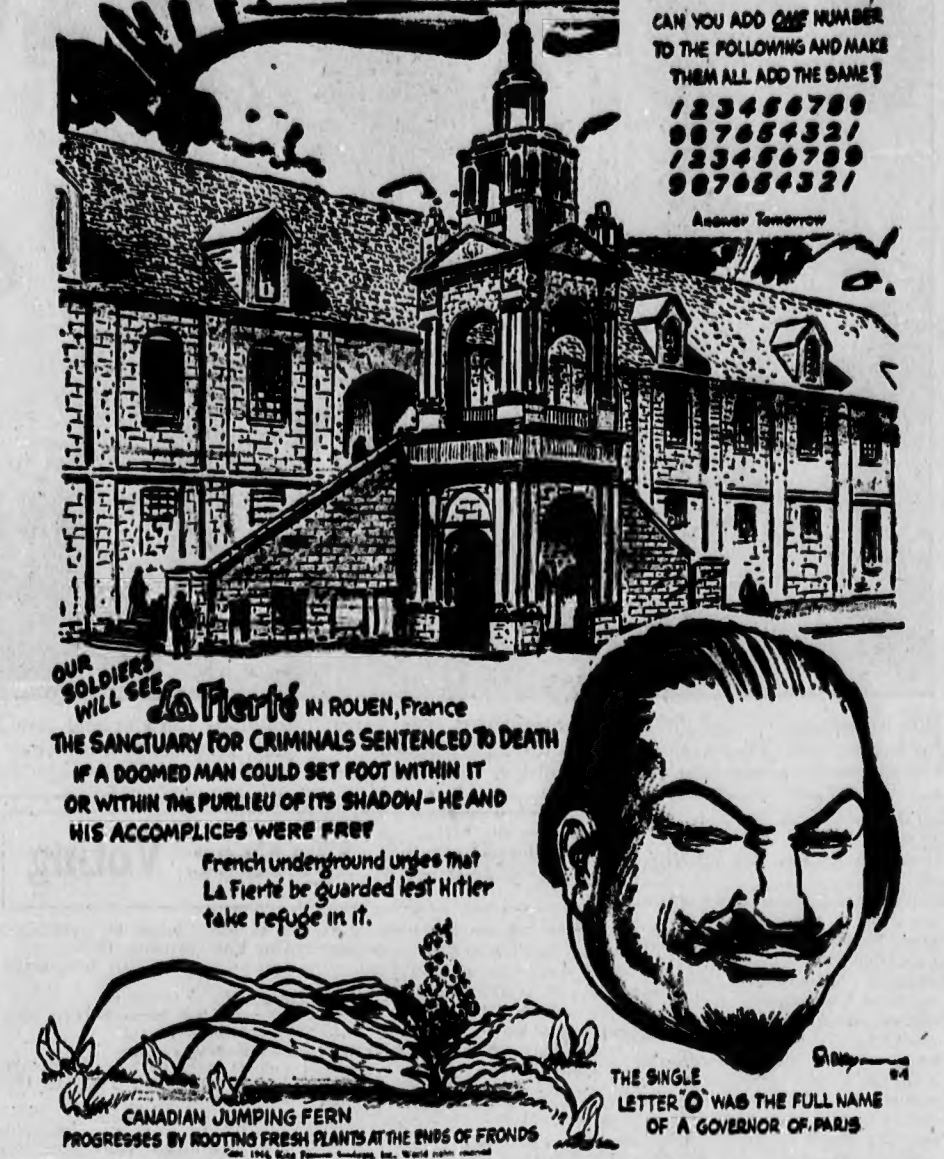

Twenty safeties in 17 games is her record so far; Ruth Brault is second base is next with 387 made up of 21 hits in 21 games; then comes Thora Stewart, shortfielder, with 276 from 18 hits in 19 games; in fourth place is Teddy Howey, shortstop, 269 with 17 hits in 20 games.

Calgary Chinooks will play two games in Edmonton. The first is scheduled for Saturday night at 7:30 and the second on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. The following week-end these same clubs will meet in Calgary to complete the series to determine which squad will entertain the British Columbia winners the week after that.

Half Game From Yanks

Brant Pitches Three-Hitter As Dodgers Trim Signals 6-1

TOMMY BRANT cut U.S. Signals off with just three scattered singles and Dodgers had little difficulty in taking a 6-1 decision in Tuesday night's Senior Baseball League fixture at Renfrew Park. The Yanks' margin as leaders of the circuit accordingly was reduced to a half game.

In marking up his sixth victory of the season as against a pair of defeats, Brant allowed only one Signaller to get beyond second. He was Lester Nelson, who hit safely in the seventh, stole second base, went to third on an error and reached home on a double steal.

Jim Junker, who subsequently was injured while aiding in second in the opening inning, and Bob Slagle were the other Signallers who collected singles.

Lefty Lloyd Riley was touched up for three earned runs and eight hits, one of them a double by Capt. Harry Baldwin which drove in two runners in the bottom half of the first frame.

PITCHED TO 31 MEN
Only 20 men faced Brant during the first six innings, and the two walks he gave out were in the third and fourth frames. He pitched to five Signallers in the seventh, but set them down in order in both eighth and ninth.

Dodgers registered twice in the first session. George Green walked and was sacrificed to second by Doug Stevenson. Mel Ottem was safe on Culver's error and Baldwin sent both Green and Ottem home with a double into center.

Ab Superstein started off the next stanza with a hard smash over third-baseman Nelson's head into left and then stole second. He went to third as Dave Brockie grounded out to Hackler at first and scored when Riley failed to field Brant's punt.

ON DOUBLE STEAL
The Dodger pitcher advanced as George Green was being tossed out—Culver to Hackler—and completed the circuit on Stevenson's single through third.

Dodgers' brace of markers came in the sixth. Baldwin drove out his second hit to center and Ralph Morgan got a line when he hit to Nelson who threw to second for an attempted double play, but the ball got away from Culver and Baldwin came home. Morgan scored on Cliff Robinson's hit.

There was one away when Nelson got his single to center in the seventh. He stole second, and was safe at third when Morgan dropped the throw on Byrd's fielder's choice. The two Signallers worked a double steal for the run.

Enlisted Men Edge Out Moose In 11 Innings

USAAF Enlisted Men pushed across two runs in the 11th inning at Kingsway Park Tuesday night to defeat Moose 5-3 in an exciting City Men's Fastball League tilt.

A walk, an error and a stolen base put Harry Encinas and Dick Trippel on second in the 11th frame and a timely two-bagger by Sam Burns drove in the two winning runs.

The Moose club got to August Wullenweber for a total of nine hits, but the new U.S. chucker kept them well scattered to hold the losers to three runs. Leo Cherot pitched a nice game for Moose and held the winners to seven hits, but Burns' double in the 11th proved highly costly to him.

Mickey Chicknita and Alex Yack of Moose headed the sluggers last night with two safeties each in five trips.

The Enlisted Men were trailing until the ninth when they scored one to tie the score and force the game they won into extra innings.

Lawn Bowling Tournament

Four Local Rinks Leading In Provincial Championship

FOUR Edmonton quartets were out in front in the rink championship event (Hudson's Bay trophy) Tuesday night following the second day's play in the Alberta Lawn Bowling Association's 17th annual tournament being played here this week.

Two more games in the twilight doubles were also completed on Tuesday to wind up that draw. Playoffs in this competition will be staged Friday.

Play in the provincial rink competition resumed at 8:30 o'clock this morning. Two games in this event were scheduled for the morning and the semi-finals and finals were set for this afternoon with the semi-finals starting at 2 o'clock at the Patricia Greens.

The four Edmonton rinks—W. McDonald, Patricia; Harry Woodin, Woodin; J. E. Macdonald and Colin Allan both of Royal—all had a perfect day yesterday and won all four matches.

W. McDonald beat Jim Anderson, Edmonton; Bill Ruff, Alberta Avenue; G. D. Campbell, Alberta Avenue and Archie Stewart, Edmonton to capture his first four victories.

Poisonous Spray Kills 1,200 Sheep

PORTERVILLE, Calif., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Approximately 1,200 sheep were killed by a poisonous spray which drifted from a nearby olive grove in the Saucello district here, it was reported yesterday. T. L. Cloer, on whose land the sheep were grazing, said the animals were asphyxiated by fumes. The sheep were valued at more than $15,000.

STOUT HEADING VISITORS

Woodin's crew won from Bill Ruff, G. D. Campbell, Archie Stewart and Fred Colbourne, Royal, while J. E. Macdonald beat Ed. Parrack, Patricia; A. A. Campbell, Garneau; W. F. Howard, Edmonton and Tom DeBourcier, Royal. Colin Allan's triumphs were over William Nisbet, Patricia; Robert Scott, Edmonton; Jack Winchester, Patricia and George Rickson of Calgary's Bow Valley Club.

Archie Stewart's Edmonton Club quartet, the defending rink of the trophy lost all chances of retaining the silverware by losing all four of their games on Tuesday. The crew was made up of the same four as last year.

Joe Stout of the Legion Club, Medicine Hat, was next in line and lost among the visitors competing with three wins and a draw.

SIXTEEN QUALIFY

When the remaining two games of the draw are completed today, the 16 top rinks qualify for the playoffs. The best four will play off for the Hudson's Bay trophy, the next four will compete for the James Ramsey trophy, the third four will battle for the National Home trophy and the fourth set of rinks will play off for the Kellough Memorial trophy.

The tournament, which has been given a real break by the weather man so far is continuing on scheduled. Two more events opened this morning, the ladies' event for the Ingraham trophy and the Kelly singles and the provincial doubles will open play on Thursday morning.

Following are the results of Tuesday's games in the rink championship:

Syracuse Chiefs' Lisenbee Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Game

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Hod Lisenbee, 42-year-old right hander of the Syracuse Chiefs, pitched a no-hit, no-run game Tuesday night as he beat the Montreal Royals 8-0 in the seven-inning twilight half of an International League doubleheader. The Royals bounced back to romp away with the nightcap, 10-3.

Only one man reached first against Lisenbee, Morris Adair, who got aboard when Charlie Fitzgerald threw wild on an easy chance in the second inning.

Hod didn't walk a man, didn't strike out any, and only six balls were hit to the outfield.

Inexpensive Airline Seen Via Northeast

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—(CP)—The Hudson Bay chain of war-time air bases may provide a route for a slow and inexpensive airline to Europe after the war, Munitions Minister Howe said yesterday in the Commons.

Questioned about future use of the airports which were built by the United States and are being acquired by Canada, the minister said: "It is intended to use all war airports for civil aviation as far as possible."

It was possible Trans-Atlantic aviation might fall into two classes, a high speed luxury type of traffic such as that now being carried and a slower, less expensive type of traffic which would require a number of stops. The latter type might well use the chain of air bases extending through the Pas, Man, Church, South, Southampton Island, Frobisher Bay, Greenland and Iceland.

TO DISPOSE OF ASSETS
Answering questions from John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) during consideration of civil aviation estimates, Mr. Howe said arrangements are being made to have War Assets Corporation act for the disposal of movable assets at the airports.

Mr. Diefenbaker also asked about reports that lumber and other supplies at the airport overhaul plant of Moose Jaw, Sask., had been improperly disposed of. Mr. Howe said the plant was operated by Canadian Pacific Airlines for the government which had taken it over from the original company.

He had no report on any disposal of supplies, but if any were disposed of and they belonged to the government the disposal was illegal. If they belonged to the company the government was not concerned.

EDMONTON-WINNIPEG ROUTE
The minister said he could not give a date for the opening of the proposed new air service between Edmonton and Winnipeg. The beams were nearing completion and the fields were being improved, but Trans-Canada Air Lines was short of equipment.

Mr. Diefenbaker urged that steps be taken to improve the airport at Prince Albert by hard-surfacing the runways. He said the city did not have the air facilities to which it was entitled.

"The constituency of Prince Albert is very ably represented in this house," said Mr. Howe. (Prime Minister Mackenzie King is the member.)

"I am the Prime Minister's constituent," said Mr. Diefenbaker, who lives in Prince Albert.

He said he had not raised the matter in a partisan way.

Mr. Howe said there were plans for developing airports at Prince Albert and other points after the war, but it was impossible now to divert labor from war projects to the hard surfacing of runways at civilian airports.

Great Britain, United States Sign Oil Pact

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The United States and Great Britain yesterday signed an agreement on world oil policy looking toward a settlement of competitive problems, as a contribution toward post-war international security.

The agreement was signed by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., acting Secretary of State, for the United States and by Lord Beaverbrook for the United Kingdom.

It sets up an international petroleum commission charged with estimating world demand for petroleum and recommending how British and American companies can carry out their production with the view to orderly development of world resources.

Announcing conclusion of the pact, which presumably is not subject to senate ratification, the state department said it is "of an interim character and is preliminary to the negotiation of a multilateral agreement on petroleum to which the governments of all producing and consuming countries interested in the international petroleum trade will, it is hoped, become signatories."

Main points in the agreement are: 1—Assurance of adequate petroleum supplies to "all peaceable countries at fair prices and on a non-discriminatory basis subject to such collective security arrangements as may at any time be in force."

2—"Development of petroleum resources with a view to the sound economic advancement of producing countries."

3—"Recognition of the principle of equal opportunity in the acquisition of concessions."

4—"Respect for valid concession contracts."

5—"Freeing the production and distribution of petroleum from unnecessary restrictions."

The agreement, which is the first post-war pact on international trade, was viewed with satisfaction by both American and British officials.

They considered it a long step toward eliminating possible conflicts between their two governments and toward establishment of a mechanism with which to enforce peace.

The provision that all "peaceable countries" should be able to obtain plenty of oil was the basis for a ready means of imposing sanctions on the most vital material for war against future aggressors.

SAWFLY DAMAGE
Sawfly damage in the dry section of southern Saskatchewan was noticeable while hail took further toll at a number of points. The Alberta picture showed little change, rains coming too late to help crops in the dry sections.

Much of the grain in Manitoba is ready for harvesting and operations will be widespread as soon as weather permits. Crops are ripening rapidly in southern Saskatchewan and cutting of barley is well under way. Grain on summer fallow is in good to excellent condition, but on stubble it ranges from fair to poor.

The harvesting of grain in Alberta is largely confined to the dry sections of the south and the Peace River country where premature ripening resulting from heat and drought advanced the harvest date. Headers and combines are busy south of Calgary and east of the foothills and wheat is mostly yielding less than five bushels to the acre in this area.

Crop prospects continue excellent in most northern districts, the Peace River excepted, and heavy yields of wheat and other grains are indicated at Melfort and Prince Albert in Saskatchewan, and through the central and northern sections of Alberta.

Losses from hail occurred in all three provinces and some damage from flooding may occur in southern Manitoba, while sawfly may take a toll in both Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Labor is scarce at a large number of points and presents one of the biggest problems. There is also a shortage of experienced power equipment operators in the Portage district of Manitoba.

Good Amount Of Grain Cut In Past Week

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—(CP)—A considerable amount of grain was cut in the prairie provinces last week, the greatest progress being made in southern Manitoba, the dry sections of southern Alberta and in the Peace River country, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today in the 11th of a series of 16 weekly reports on conditions in the prairies.

Heavy rains halted work in Manitoba, but the general outlook for grain crops in that province continues promising, said the report. Good showers in Saskatchewan were beneficial, but the area of deterioration appears to have spread somewhat and crop prospects in the Redoubt district have declined perceptibly.

Liberation Nearing Nazis Expected to Fight For Islands in Channel

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(CP)—The liberation of the Channel Islands is believed here to be imminent once German garrisons in the ports of Brittany have been destroyed, but in the opinion of unofficial observers there has been little sign the enemy will surrender the islands without a fight.

There has been some movement of enemy troops from Jersey and Guernsey to the mainland but it is believed that they were shifted to reinforce the Brittany garrisons rather than to start the evacuation of the islands.

It is known the Germans have heavy gun emplacements on the Channel Islands, which they occupied in 1940, and that underground railways permit ammunition to be delivered to batteries free from air attack.

Roland Barnett, an English resident of Guernsey when it was occupied, escaped to France several weeks ago and told a war correspondent that the Germans had garrisons of 5,000 men both on Jersey and Guernsey.

The Germans on Guernsey showed uneasiness as long as a year ago, Barnett said. They earlier had equipped the islands as bases for the invasion of Britain but at that time began to prepare them to resist invasion.

Anti-glider stakes were planted on airfields and all aircraft except for some fighters were flown away. Crack troops were replaced by teen-aged youths and veterans of from 40 to 50.

Social Credit Government Is Swept Back to Power In Landslide Alberta Vote

E. Roper, CCF leader, Edmonton, almost reached an approximate quota, while James A. MacPherson, Labor-Progressive head, polled only 725 votes in the city.

City Voting Record Anticipated

When complete Edmonton returns are counted, the vote is expected to reach 40,000, a city record in provincial elections.

The quota will be 6,800 votes, depending on the total of valid votes, giving Premier Manning a surplus of as many as 7,370—enough to elect him a second time.

The Manning surplus will be divided on a percentage basis according to second choices.

To determine surplus distribution, the complicated "PR" vote system will occupy attention of 80 compiling clerks for a possible 24 hours' steady work.

Distribution of Second Choices

The total vote polled by Mr. Manning will first be recounted, with second choices being recorded separately. Percentages of second choice for each candidate will be struck from these figures. Then the percentages will be applied to the premier's surplus only, these being distributed according to results obtained.

Calgary counting, similar to Edmonton's, will be delayed longer here, because soldier ballots for that city must be sorted here and then flown south.

Sixty-eight of 220 split polls in the southern city gave the following results: Fred Anderson, Social Credit, 1,886; Charles Baker, Social Credit, 200; Edward Geehan, Social Credit, 302; Arthur Larsen, Social Credit, 320; Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, Social Credit, 1,329; R. T. Alderman, CCF, 602; Cpl. C. Helmer, CCF, 435; F. O. A. Leismser, CCF, 1,027; Lt. Kenneth Tory, CCF, 403; H. A. Wertz, CCF, 148; J. J. Bowen, Independent, 773; R. C. Carille, Independent, 536; Mayor A. Davidson, Independent, 2,621; H. P. Macdonald, Independent, 875; T. D. Daniels, Labor-Progress, 43; Capt. L. Edwards, Lab-Progress, 116; Audrey Staples, Lab-Progress, 14 and Gordon Wray, Lab-Progress, 25.

Hitch in the soldier vote occurred when ballot boxes from five military stations in the south—Claresholm, Lethbridge internment camp, Medicine Hat internment camp, Suffield Experimental Station and Vauxhall—were not received here by James Thomson, special returning officer for the military ballot.

Voting took place Monday at 33 military centres through the province, each Alberta serviceman or woman voting on a ballot from his home constituency. The ballots were rushed to Edmonton, where they were sorted according to constituencies and sent to returning officers.

RESULTS WITHHELD
Election officers counted 3,000 soldier votes already received for Edmonton riding, but withheld results until complete returns are known. It was announced the Social Credit party received greater part of the 3,000 ballots counted.

While the soldier vote will not affect results in rural ridings except in close contests, it is vital to city counts in Edmonton and Calgary, where electoral quotas cannot be established until they are all counted.

The quota is established by dividing the total number of valid ballots by six, the number of seats plus one. To the quotient one is added, this final figure being the quota, or number of votes necessary to assume election.

FEW REJECTS

Rejected ballots in Edmonton were not numerous. Most were thrown out for use of crosses instead of figures, two "1's" or "2's" or being marked in ink instead of pencil.

Some were counted which registered first choice for Social Credit, second for CCF, third for Independent, fourth for Labor-Progressive, and no fifth marked. While these are not actually wasted, they are useless to party slates beyond the first count.

City counting is under general ship. Social Crediters in the election campaign said they opposed the CCF program for national ownership of industries. They cited the oil industry and its outlays in oil exploration. If the exploration program had been undertaken by the government the cost to the taxpayers would have been at least $18,000,000, Social Crediters said.

The Social Credit platform favored refunding of the provincial debt on "fair and equitable" terms. After the election of the first Social Credit government the interest paid by the province was cut in half, and Mr. Low, as provincial treasurer, recently has been seeking an agreement with bondholders on what interest will be paid in the future.

Mr. Manning said several times during the campaign the Social Crediters' enthusiasm reminded him of the first election campaign by the party in 1935 when it defeated a United Farmers of Alberta administration.

CONTINUE OLD CUSTOM

The Social Crediters continued their practice of singing hymns at their election meetings, which some party members said reminded them of Mr. Aberhart, who was an evangelist and encouraged such singing when he was spreading the Social Credit story throughout the province in the early 30's.

The CCF, suggesting a program for Alberta similar to that set forth in the Saskatchewan campaign, advocated progressive application of the principle of public ownership in the development of natural resources, major industries and distributive services.

INDEPENDENT PROGRAM

The Independent party put forward a program of post-war planning, co-operation with all other governments in prosecution of the war, and refunding of the bonded debt on the basis of a reduction of interest.

The Labor-Progressives stressed the need of continued co-operation among the leading nations of the United Nations, Soviet Russia, the United States and Britain. They said that Albertans should elect a government which would support co-operation among the Allies after the war and thus assist in maintaining and expanding markets for Alberta products.

Following the 1940 election, in which their main opponents were Independents, the Social Crediters had 36 members in the house, against 19 Independents, one Labor and one Liberal.

Of four by-elections between 1940 and 1944, Social Credit won three and the CCF one.

SPECIAL SESSION

Mr. Manning has announced a session of the legislature will be held later this year when arrangements will be made to take a vote among Alberta service men and women outside the province who will elect three members-at-large.

Plot Is Reported To Oust Franco

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. (AP)—A plot to overthrow General Francisco Franco of Spain was reported yesterday by DNB, the German agency, which asserted agents charged with engineering the coup had been arrested in Morocco. The report of the report was heard by NBC.

METAL FOR VC's

LONDON.—(CP)—The VC medal is still being made from the last gun captured by the British in the Crimean war. Another 50 pounds of the metal still remains. It is enough to make 800 medals.

Total Below 1940

Social Credit Polled 53% of Popular Vote

Preliminary and incomplete tabulation by The Canadian Press of the popular vote in the Alberta election indicated the final total will be less than the 1940 figure of 306,240.

Social Credit which swept back into power, polled 53 per cent. of the vote, and CCF, which also put candidates in all constituencies, polled 25 per cent. Independents, whose total vote in 1940 approximately equalled the Social Credit total, polled 15 per cent.

The tabulation, based on returns from 2,221 of 2,665 polls, follows:

	1944	1940	1935
Social Credit	121,842 (39)	131,918 (36)	163,700 (56)
Independent	35,409 (10)	130,118 (39)	100,000 (32)
CCF	57,080 (16)	33,326 (10)	33,063 (10)
UFA	15,906 (4)	10,873 (3)	104,989 (34)
Others	229,947 (65)	306,240 (94)	301,732 (98)

(x)—37 seats, including 18 doubtful.

19 Are Wounded In Montreal Riots

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—(CP)—An estimated 19 persons suffered gunshot wounds yesterday in election-day riots which were confined to one riding but which were described by police as the worst in 28 years in Montreal. No deaths were reported.

Five persons were in hospital and police estimated that about 14 others had been wounded but were carried away by members of their gangs before police could break up the riots.

The two outbreaks left the break-up rooms of Liberal candidate Claude Jodoin and of Union Nationale representative Omer Cote with windows smashed and furniture wrecked.

Liberal headquarters were attacked first and later the Union Nationale committee rooms were under fire. St. Catherine Street East was littered with broken window glass, smashed bottles which had been used as weapons, and debris.

Provincial police seized what was described as an arsenal of knives of all descriptions, blackjacks, daggers and miscellaneous weapons.

Re-Elected

P.O. Gordon Taylor, Social Credit member of the legislature in the last legislature, who was re-elected in the provincial general election of Tuesday. His was the first constituency to report a final result.

affect our faith in the soundness of the Independent movement.

James H. Walker, Independent party leader: It is evident that the CCF threat swung a lot of our votes to Social Credit. The people have spoken and we must abide by their decision. To the Independents of Alberta I would say, "Keep organized and active, there will be another election some day."

W. J. Williams, Veterans and Armed Services candidate: I should like to congratulate Premier Manning on his re-election and the sweeping victory of his government.

However, I am sorry that he isn't going to have a little keener opposition as I think that keeps any government on its toes. Although the veterans here were not organized as the other parties were, I think the results of the election so far are proof of what they can do when they unite for a common cause. Regardless of whether or not I am elected the veterans' organizations in this city will continue their fight for ex-service men and, in my opinion, the support I have received indicates that after the war is over if the veterans don't get a square deal they can organize a party of their own and put out any government.

I want to take this opportunity to thank all those people who worked for me and who supported me during this campaign.

James A. MacPherson, LPP leader: Our party has made a dent in the province... a larger dent than we've ever made. Of all parties the Labor Progressive has concentrated especially on the needs of the Independents. It also has exposed to Alberta the dangers of isolationism and defeatism of the CCF.

The big thing is the unity of the people in the post-war period, irrespective of party. The new government elected will face the biggest task... and it's not a question of waiting another five years. Starting now, if they don't meet the needs of the people we'll take steps to see there is a change in government.

We want a road, and we're going to get it. If this country can see a road to Alaska, it can build a market road for the people. We must get at least one decent gravel road into the west end of the Wetaskiwin constituency.

again accorded such an overwhelming endorsement.

"I appreciate deeply the confidence in the Social Credit government which the electors have expressed today at the polls. I feel even more keenly the great responsibility that attaches to the tremendous task which you have asked us to carry on."

"I pledge my colleagues and myself to do everything in our power to justify your confidence and to carry out faithfully and efficiently the renewed mandate you have given us. We will carry on the fight with unrelenting vigor, until we reach our ultimate goal and objective of an Alberta and a Canada in which every citizen is assured of a full measure of social and economic security, with the maximum of individual freedom."

"Now that the election is over, I sincerely hope that there will be no recriminations and no bitterness or malice."

"I bespeak the wholehearted co-operation and support of every citizen of this province irrespective of politics, race or creed in a united effort to advance the common good. Forgetting that which is behind, and with an eye single to the interests of all the people of this splendid province, let us now go forward together, in humility and confidence, relying daily on Divine providence for wisdom and guidance, that our efforts may be crowned with success."

Disease Reveals Decrease in City

New cases of communicable disease in the city during the last week showed a decrease, the report of Medical Health Officer Dr. G. M. Little, for that period, issued Wednesday, revealed.

There were 38 new cases of communicable disease reported during the seven-day period compared to 41 for the last period of seven days. There was a big drop in the number of chickenpox cases reported, only four new cases developing compared to 10 for last week.

There is an increase of mumps, however, with 17 new cases against 11 last week.

The medical officer said that the situation in regard to communicable disease is normal for this period of the year.

55 Contestants May Lose Deposit

It seemed likely, judging from preliminary reports Wednesday, that at least 35 candidates out of the 184 contesting the Alberta general election, would lose their $100 cash deposits for failure to poll a sufficient number of votes. In 1940 there were 47 deposits forfeited.

So far it would appear that no Social Creditler was in danger of losing his deposit, but CCF candidates appeared due to lose 16 deposits; Independents 15; Labor Progressives 23; and Farmer-Labor one.

Communications Show Increase Of 400 Per Cent.

Edmonton has been the focal point for communications in Western Canada since the United States entered the war, with message traffic and other services showing an increase of more than 400 per cent at the peak, and still running at a high level, W. D. Neil, general manager of communications of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said in an interview here Wednesday.

Mr. Neil, who is making his annual inspection tour of the west, said that the company is proceeding with a program of steady modernization throughout the west and new facilities and services installed in recent years should be sufficient to cope with the business of the post war period, likely to increase as the result of probable developments in the north.

MODERNIZATION

The company was fortunate in having pursued a policy of modernization throughout the depression years despite a very large capital outlay, Mr. Neil said.

Therefore, when the war started it was in an excellent position to handle the tremendous increase of private messages, long distance telephone, and special services, required by the government.

As a result the company has been able to handle the great volume of traffic with very few additions in the way of equipment.

Lines Served

Lines leased to the United States and Canadian governments were also served.

To meet this unprecedented wartime situation additional experienced staff was transferred to the Edmonton office from other points so that the quality of service could be maintained.

MAKE ADDITIONS

At the present moment extensive additions and improvements are being effected in the lines radiating into and out of Edmonton and in the equipment at the Edmonton office.

Modern carrier current telegraph and telephone equipment being installed will increase the capacity of the lines between Edmonton and Calgary by fully 50 per cent.

The party will continue the tour Thursday.

Weather To Be Warmer in City

According to the forecast, there is to be little change in prevailing weather.

The weather forecast for Thursday is, "bright and warm with temperatures much the same."

The estimated low Wednesday night is 50 degrees, high tomorrow 75 degrees. The temperature at 2 p.m. was 72 degrees.

The maximum temperature Tuesday was 75 degrees, the estimated high today 79 degrees. The minimum Tuesday was 45 degrees, the overnight low 50 degrees.

Before the Magistrate

Metro Lupul of Hairy Hill was left in charge of the farm of George Rupash, while the latter took a vacation. Lupul, because he was in charge of things, thought that included the family car, which he used, and in which he became involved in an accident resulting in a companion being injured. Lupul then left the district, coming to Edmonton, and intending to go on to Calgary and join the army, but he was picked up by RCMP.

Pleading guilty to driving an auto without the owner's consent, when he appeared before Magistrate A. I. Miller, K.C., Wednesday morning, Lupul was fined $30 or six weeks. He has been too much of a temptation for the accused, being left alone on the place, the crown observed.

John Berzushko, Edmonton, pleaded guilty to keeping a gaming house in the city, and was assessed $100 or three months.

His citation says his feats were "worthy of the greatest praise."

Police Search This Province For 6 Germans

Royal Canadian Mounted Police from Edmonton and surrounding detachments were searching Wednesday for five men, two of them civilian internees who escaped from Strathmore Tuesday night, and three German prisoners-of-war who escaped from a lumber camp of the Etter-MacDougall company at Brule on Sunday.

The civilian internees, both of whom speak broken English, were said by police to have escaped in a 1940 model 1½-ton truck, which they stole. They are August Kaehler and Otto Stolski, who were both wearing prisoner-of-war clothing.

Kaehler was described as being six feet one inch tall, with blond wavy hair, square chin, large feet and ears, and walking with a limp. Stolski is said to be five feet eight inches tall, with dark brown hair, small mouth, deep-set eyes and high forehead. He has tattoo marks consisting of women's heads on both arms, and other tattoo marks on his body.

THREE PRISONERS

The three prisoners-of-war were Heinz Seppmann, five feet seven inches tall; Konrad Sipple, five feet six inches tall; and Walter Kranz, five feet six inches tall.

Seppmann was described as being of dark complexion, black hair, brown eyes, sharp nose, square chin, slim build, and wearing German air force trousers and wind-colored windbreaker.

Sipple, known to have been wearing a blue windbreaker, was of medium complexion, brown hair, brown eyes, straight nose, square chin, and clean shaven. Kranz, also wearing German air force trousers and windbreaker, was of fair complexion, blond hair, brown eyes, broad nose, small mouth, pimpled face and stocky build.

Police stated that the truck in which the two civilian internees made their escape was of international make, dark green in color, with the letters "CPR" painted on the cab door in yellow letters. It bore Alberta license number C-6606.

Police are still searching for another prisoner-of-war who escaped recently from a camp at Whitecourt, as well as for Paul Abraham, young Cherhill Indian suspected of shooting and killing his wife.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION
What is your reaction to the statement made here Tuesday by G. Spencer Summers, member of the British parliament for Northampton that Australia is gratified at the prospect of Canada putting forth a maximum effort in the Pacific war?

THE ANSWER
HARVEY NORRIS, clerk: I am glad to hear that the Aussies are glad of the news. So far they have borne a large share of the fighting and they will be happy at the knowledge that their old comrades from Canada will be "in there" beside them.

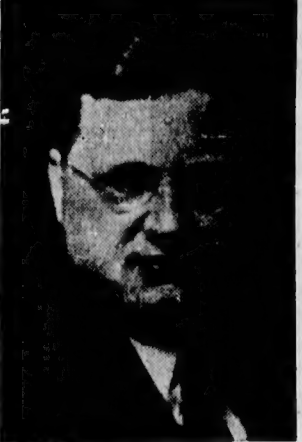

CLARENCE MIDDLETON, salesman: Of course I don't think there ever has been any doubt that Canada would be in the Pacific theatre in a big way. But it is good to know that the Australians appreciate it, and no doubt they will welcome all-out assistance.

JIM BUTTERFIELD, trucker: The Australians need have no worry. Canada will give all out aid and I am glad the men from down under appreciate it.

Hundreds Ballots Spoiled Tuesday

Hundreds of ballots were rejected in Tuesday's vote because electors insisted on devising their own marking methods.

Rejected ballots were marked 1, 1, 1, and right on down the list of 20 names with the figure one opposite each name. Several had a cross opposite each name, others had crosses on five selections.

Several ballots in the rejected pile started off with a cross and then used the number system through the rest of the names. Some were rejected because numbers had been changed, others were marked in ink.

Many voters gave their leading choices to political party leaders.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Husband Falls for Flirt Wonders Should She Go Wife Wonders If She Should Break Up Home; It Is Just a Brain Storm That Will Pass If Given Time

Dear Miss Dix: I am a married woman with two children. Have a good home and a good husband and was very happy until a short time ago when I found out that my husband was paying attention to a little flirt in our town. She is married and has a good husband. She has broken up several homes for the men all seem to fall for her.

She neglects her little children who run the streets.

I taxed my husband with going out with her and he said he took her out riding sometimes because her husband was too busy to take her out. He said he thought that she was very cute. What must I do? Shall I leave my husband?

A MISERABLE WIFE

Answer: Of course, you mustn't leave your husband merely because he has become entangled in a silly flirtation. It is just a brain storm that will pass if you will give it time. Many men, along toward middle-life, are afflicted with a temporary mental eclipse. They have the hallucination that they are tired of their wives and children, of domesticity and decent living and that they have fallen in love with some alien.

But it doesn't last. After a bit a man comes to his senses and he is ashamed and repentant, and glad enough to come back home to his wife and thereafter be as domestic as the house cat. The whole episode may be written down in the comic annals of the family history, unless the wife has been as foolish as he has and has broken up her home and made a tragedy of it.

It is pretty hard to see anything humorous in your husband making a fool of himself and falling for the wiles of a cheap vamp, who flatters him and makes eyes at him while she digs her predatory little hands in his pocketbook. But it is one of the occasions upon which a woman must either laugh or cry and the wise wife is the one who doesn't cry or nag or reproach her husband or point out his duty to him.

Don't give up your husband and your home and your living because your husband makes a few sweet eyes at another woman.

OWE PARENTS

Dear Miss Dix: What do children owe their parents besides the conventional love, honor and obedience? Also, what feeling should exist between brothers and sisters?

Answer: The amount of love and honor you owe your parents is a debt that automatically settles itself. You love and honor them if they are kind and tender and affectionate to you and if their lives are such as to inspire respect and reverence in you, but nobody can expect children to love parents who are cruel and hard to them, or parents who live degraded lives.

Also, the amount of obedience children owe their parents depends upon the justice of the parent's demands. After a child has reached the age of reason he must use his own judgment in obeying his parents. A mother, for instance, has no right to force her daughter to obey her and marry a man she doesn't love nor has a father a right to expect his son to obey him and go into an occupation for which he has no taste.

So far as money is concerned, it is the children's duty to support their parents if they are old or sick and in want.

The relationship between brothers and sisters should be that of affection and comradeship, a sort of superfriendship, because they have not only the tie of association and congeniality but also of blood and a common interest. When this love exists between brothers and sisters, it is one of the most beautiful and satisfying of all human relationships.

YOUNG MAN

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young man, very handsome and popular. I am 23 and have been divorced and married again, and I am much more in love with another young lady than I am with my wife. This young lady is married but doesn't care for her husband. Would you advise us to get divorced and marry each other or stay discontented the way we are?

Answer: A man as fickle as you are should get divorced and stay that way. No woman could hold your fancy for long so it is folly to tie yourself up with any particular lady. You are not husband material so fight shy of matrimony and thereby save some unfortunate woman from trouble. These part-time husbands are no good.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Never was there a child who didn't, at some time or another, talk back to his parents. These contemptuous and rude remarks infuriate a parent, because they deflate his own sense of importance.

In consequence she is emotionally incapable of dealing with them casually. She answers back tartly, thus proclaiming herself as childish as the child, or she says like any Mrs. Uppington, "You can't do that to me," and then discovers that he can and does.

sympathetic nervous system called vasomotor nerves. Besides drugs, various other things influence the circulation through the vasomotor nerves, such as toxins, ductless gland hormones (notable adrenin), and emotions—the emotions acting by producing increased or decreased secretion of adrenin.

Letters should be brief, and written in ink. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, 285 El Camino South, Beverly Hills, Calif.)

Parents should be prepared for the child from age 4 or on to say, "What say I have to?" or "You're nuts," or just "I won't do it."

Armed for such crises they will not flare up and hit back or talk back, both of which weaken their case and put them in the wrong. Remember that children have been accustomed from infancy to be told what to do and when to do it. That can't go on indefinitely and they assert their independence in words if not in deeds. If they find that the can scratch the polish from their parents' courtesy, they grow cocky and do not hesitate to say what dumb-bells the parents are.

This is a cheap sort of vengeance against parents who dominate them so consistently. It is a kind of bravado which tends to kick the props out from under the persons who lord it over them. It shouldn't be taken too seriously.

Of course the mother says, and we hope truthfully, "I don't talk to you that way and I resent such discourtesy from you." Let's hope she doesn't talk rudely to her children and their friends for then she hasn't a leg to stand on and she must expect that her children will imitate her words as well as her behavior.

Some of a small child's sassiness can be ignored if its relationships with its parents are ordinarily harmonious. In fact a laugh of genuine amusement at the small fry who says, "You're a drip," will bring an answering laugh in return.

As the old song goes, "Words can never harm you." One has to expect a small amount of this "wordy" revolt from the child who, in all important matters, still continues to act at the dictation of the parent. Our leaflet, "Disease Prevention," helps the parent understand the responsibility she bears to immunize her children against preventable diseases. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of this newspaper.

POOR CIRCULATION

'Statistician of one of the large life insurance companies reports that coronary heart disease has apparently increased and is still increasing, this having been given as the cause of death in 4.7 per hundred thousand claims paid in 1930, in 24.9 per hundred thousand claims paid in 1935.

Whether such statistics or any statistics show that coronary or other forms of heart disease are actually on the increase I don't know. Some medical authorities seem to believe there is more heart disease now than there was twenty, fifty or a hundred years ago. That a good many laymen harbor the same belief is impressed upon me by letters from laymen. It is the conviction of these ambitious but untrained (that is, untrained in the science of Pathology) experts that the alarming increase in heart disease, as they see it, is clearly due to smoking, drinking coffee, eating meat or too much meat, or even too much starchy food—which, in their fancy, causes "gas," and the "gas" of course "presses on the heart" and there you are.

Actually there is no reason to imagine that any of these causes, excepting smoking, may contribute to heart disease. In regard to smoking, it is the consensus of medical opinion, as nearly as I can determine, ine, that it does cause heart disease, especially coronary occlusion (narrowing, constriction or stoppage of a branch of the coronary artery). Efficiency of the circulation depends not alone on the condition of the conduits or arteries through which the blood flows. It depends on the state of the large and small arteries which one can feel and see but even more, perhaps, on the state of the smallest terminal tubes, called arterioles, which are visible only under the microscope—and I don't mean "capillaries," for nobody can see or has seen a capillary.

It is mainly through the contraction, narrowing or constriction of the arterioles or relaxation, widening or dilation of these minute terminal tubes that tobacco, for instance, (rather tobacco smoke or whatever element or component of tobacco smoke may be responsible—nicotine, carbon monoxide, furan, ammonia?) you pays your money and takes your choice, although I plump for carbon monoxide as the important factor) affects the circulation. The effects of drugs on the circulation are largely brought about in the same way. The caliber or diameter of the arterioles is changeable, being under the control of the portion of the autonomic, automatic or unconscious (independent of the will)

Keep Letters On the Move

By HELEN BANNERMAN

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—(CP)—Take it from Wing Cmdr. H. T. E. Lee, M.C., who has just returned from a visit to RCAF stations in Britain, the fat letters with return address of mother or wife or sweetheart are still the top "morale boosters" for Canadian fighting men overseas.

"I saw the boys in the briefing rooms of the bomber and fighter squadrons, waiting for their cue to go over Fortress Europe again, and I saw how good those letters made them feel," the Toronto man said. One of the two RCAF members of the dependents allowance board Wing Cmdr. Lee visited air force stations from the Azuleians to Ceylon. And as sergeant and later lieutenant of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in the First Great War, he knows his soldier at first hand.

"I don't think some of the people here at home even yet realize the importance of the right sort of letter going overseas."

The "right sort of letter" is a happy blend of assurance to the fighting man that he still has first place in the hearts of those he left behind, and family and neighborhood news—so long as it is not a list of minor disasters.

"In the work of the board we see so many cases where the right letter would turn the trick—in cases of estrangement or pending divorce—where there may be an English girl in the picture and nagging letter from the wife make matters worse."

The serviceman, from private to general, is lonely for the people and places he has left behind. Even the most charming bit of England is not the wheatfields of Saskatchewan nor the pines of Muskoka which he keeps in his mind's eye.

Tell him about his favorite piece of scenery, how the fish have multiplied since he left, and tell him how proud you are of him—that is Wing Cmdr. Lee's advice.

Gladys Gwen Williams Weds At Baptist Church in Texas

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 9.—Gaston Avenue Baptist church, Dallas, Texas, was the scene of a wedding of interest to Edmonton on July 18 at 7:30 p.m., when Gladys Gwen Williams, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams, Edmonton, became the bride of John Rhea NeSmith, youngest son of Mrs. J. R. NeSmith, Dallas, and the late Mr. NeSmith. The Rev. Marshall Craig performed the ceremony.

Manners Vital On Home Front

By ARLENE WOLF

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(CP)—Manners have moved out of the parlor, and on to the international scene. The way you talk to the grocery boy or the bus driver may have seemed a pretty private affair so far—but take it from Margaret Culkin Banning, it's public property now.

In a bright but serious little book called "Conduct Yourself Accordingly," Miss Banning shows how the P's and Q's of good conduct can be the ABC solution of a lot of nagging problems.

"At this hour, with the word democracy blaring from a hundred million radios," she says, "we are falling in the practice of democratic conduct, which means constant recognition of the rights, needs and feelings of the others."

Mere company manners won't do

Lyman-Darkes Wedding Held

CALGARY, Aug. 9.—A wedding of interest to Edmonton took place in Calgary in the rectory of Central United church on Friday, August 4, at 3 p.m. when Miss Audrey Darkes, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Darkes, Edmonton, became the bride of LAC. Maxwell F. Lyman, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Lyman, Salmon Arm, B.C. The Rev. L. F. Dalgleish performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a powder blue two-piece crepe frock, navy hat and accessories and a corsage of sweet-heart roses and bouvardia.

Mrs. Muriel Guthrie was matron-of-honor, smartly frocked in an orchid two-piece crepe dress with accessories to match and a corsage of mauve gladioli and yellow roses. M. S. Thomson was best man.

RECEPTION HELD

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Brentwood room of the Empress hotel, which was decorated with gladioli and anemones. Mr. Thomson proposed the toast to the bride.

Later the couple left for a honeymoon trip to Banff, the bride travelling in a brown tailored suit, and accessories to match. The bridegroom has returned to his station in Macleod and the bride will remain in Edmonton for the time being.

Out-of-town guests included Miss Molly Darkes, sister of the bride, and Mrs. H. J. Darkes, sister-in-law of the bride, both of Edmonton, and Sqn. Ldr. Kenneth Chambers, R.C.A.F., Toronto.

the trick, Miss Banning insists. Personal conduct isn't something to be put on in public, and shed in private. And since millions of individual conducts make up the national conduct, we'd better "conduct ourselves accordingly."

"If we want to improve democracy, we must improve personal behavior," she says.

Prosecute 310 Italo Senators

By ELEANOR PACKARD
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press
ROME, Aug. 8.—A total of 310 Italian senators were listed today for prosecution before a newly-created high court on charges of being implicated in Fascist crimes. The list, which left only 110 senators unimplicated was submitted to the court by Count Carlo Sforza, high commissioner for punishment of Fascist crimes. He emphasized that those named would be tried under a clause in a recent decree which prescribes punishment rather than merely "purification."

The clause affects members of legislative or institutional assemblies which by their votes or acts contributed to the maintenance of the Fascist regime or aided in Italy's participation in the war.

Although the high court only can remove a guilty defendant from official position, the offender still would be liable to trial by an ordinary criminal court.

Nazis Routine Procedure

By Maj. A. P. de Seversky

One could have forecast with certainty that in view of political troubles at home and military defeat beyond the frontiers, Hitler's propaganda chief, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, would step out with promises of even bigger and better secret weapons. That has become routine procedure in the land of the Nazis. It is the regulation shot in the arm for a flagging morale.

In his broadcast to the German nation on July 25, soon after the attempted assassination of the Fuehrer, Dr. Goebbels sought to revive German hopes with claims that a new secret weapon is almost ready. The main points, he declared, are already in production and only minor elements remain to be tested and perfected.

These dispatches have pointed out how, at every crucial stage of the war, the Hitler regime has sought to bolster national morale by the vision of a deadly weapon which would reverse the tide of German defeat. The new weapons, when unveiled, failed to turn that tide—but there is no point in denying that they have proved efficiently destructive.

The Nazi leaders plunged into a Second World War with an ill-conceived strategy implemented by the wrong kind of weapons. As soon as the stunning effects of the initial surprise were ended, the Allies were able to take advantage of the German mistakes by creating and applying the kind of military force which Hitler failed to create.

TELLING BLOW

The most telling blow was delivered by our strategic air power. It ground down Hitler's industrial strength to the point where he could no longer fulfill his military commitments on the Eastern and Western fronts. More than that, the destruction of his industrial potential meant that he could no longer hope to produce the means for retaliating the bombing of his home land with similar action on any such scale and with any such precision.

In human conflict, people can withstand every manner of suffering and sacrifice as long as there is a spark of hope for victory. Our strategic bombardment tended to quench that spark, making it clear to an ever larger portion of the German populace that resistance is futile. Without hope, morale must take a nosedive.

Unable to restore morale with deeds, the Nazis have had to resort to words. They had to encourage the hope of a magic weapon that would cure all the cumulative ills. The weapon was usually forthcoming—but it did not prove a cure-all. Thus the rocket torpedo, which German fighters suddenly let loose against our bombers, fulfilled one part of the propaganda promise.

But it let the Germans down on the more vital part in that it did not alter the course of the Battle of Germany. That secret weapon forced us to take more losses and to use more planes, without affecting the ultimate result.

The same holds true for the robot bomb, the Nazi answer to our successful invasion. It is clearly not a decisive weapon, but it has just as clearly made the Allied task more difficult. Not only is it inflicting serious damage on England but, more important militarily, it is absorbing a certain amount of air power which might be used to excellent advantage over the European continent.

NOT LONG WAIT

In relation to the latest Goebbels promise and threat, we did not have to wait very long. Pilots of the 8th Air Force have just disclosed that they encountered a new type of rocket-propelled plane designated as the Messerschmitt 163, though none of these planes showed any inclination to mix with American planes.

The appearance of these new planes and their behavior may indicate the tactics Germany will use, should she be able to build these new fighters in sufficient quantity. The greatest difficulty of Germany today is lack of weapons and means of transportation. This is the result of diminished industrial capacity, brought about by the Allied strategic bombing. Therefore, the first thing Hitler must do is to devise the means to discourage such bombings by inflicting losses upon the Allies of such magnitude that bombing would become uneconomical for us.

He hasn't got the means to challenge the Allied Air Force as a whole in the same manner in which we challenge Germany. Hence the only thing that the Germans can do is to direct their bombing force, while avoiding effort towards destroying our combat with our fighters. By acquiring a fighter plane of superior speed they might attempt to do the following:

- (1) Destroy our bombing force in England while it is clustered on the ground.
- (2) Destroy our planes in the air during the bombing runs over Europe.

Either of these methods will require fighter planes not only of superior speed but also with a different type of fire power. Therefore, we may expect that these new fighters will use the rocket type of ammunition in preference to present machineguns and 20-mm. cannon. Having greater speed than the standard fighter plane, these could ignore our escort and fighter protection. Using rocket torpedoes, they would remain under the defensive fire of opposing bombers only a fraction of a second—just to release the rockets—thereby minimizing their losses.

HOPES FOR PREPARATION

Let us hope that this time we are prepared to stymie the Germans at the outset instead of reacting to their scientific surprises only after we have sustained serious losses. The essence of the technological duel in modern war is, after all, the timing.

An answer to any such German threat would be in our own jet-propelled planes of superior performance. In this connection it is perhaps of significance that the War Department has permitted publication of information to the effect that jet turbines—an intrinsic part of the jet propulsion outfit—have been placed in mass production.

Asks Government Rule on Legality Of Two Strikes

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—(CP)—Clarence Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) moved the adjournment of the House of Commons yesterday for the purpose of discussing strikes at the Halifax shipyards and on the Montreal tramways. He said both interfered seriously with the war effort. They had been permitted to drag on.

Only the government could decide the "legality or otherwise" of the issues involved in the two strikes, he said.

"On the part of the employers at Halifax there is a flagrant violation of public authority."

He asked the government to make a declaration that neither the Montreal nor the Halifax situation was beyond the scope of the labor code. If that was done, the onus would be on the employers.

Newspaper Sales Banned in Camps Until Vote Over

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The sale of British newspapers and magazines was banned in United States army camps in Britain yesterday until after the American presidential election. The army said the action was taken under the soldiers' voting law requirement which says "no member of the United States armed forces shall have his vote influenced in any way."

The ban was imposed on all newspapers and magazines except those published by the military.
